

DPLU Conducts Final Inspections of Camp Cuyamaca Expansion

The Department of Planning and Land Use conducted final inspections on a $7 million expansion of Camp Cuyamaca, better known as “Sixth Grade Camp” to generations of students and families all around San Diego County.

Camp Cuyamaca, an outdoor school that the San Diego County Office of Education has been running for local students since 1946, broke ground on the expansion in September 2009. The expansion construction included two new dormitories and a student activity center and will allow the camp to serve an additional 140 students a week.
